

The Black Jack Trading Edge System

About This System

This system has been devised over a long period of time to deliver regular profits using a very simple approach.

Black Jack is a game that is very simple to play and is very popular online and in casinos all over the world, which in nearly every case provides the house with a slight edge.

However, after playing this game for years I started to develop my own strategy advantage, which meant that I was able to start actually trading the game instead of just playing it.

This actually all started some years ago whilst in Las Vegas where I found in a little shop what is called Black Jack Basic Strategy, which is also known as a cheat sheet.

The other strange thing about this little card was that the casino staff were very open to advising you if you wanted to use this while playing, which I found quite strange at first, but soon realised that this was because they all knew that eventually the house always wins.

These little Black Jack Strategy cards were being sold everywhere in all the shops along with books and even DVDs on how to win at this game, although of course the house always has that edge long term, so this was how I was going to have to adapt my trading experience to gain an edge in my favour.

Overtime I found that this was achieved through following the basic strategy with some additional elements used during my recovery process along with strategy development, which has led to me making quite some considerable money overtime.

What I discovered was that I could make consistent money over the longer term plus another massive advantage was that I could do this whenever and as much as I wanted too.

The Black Jack Trading Edge System

Why Is This A Great System

There are several reasons why this is a very good system. Firstly, you can win a session of 22.5 points in 6 hands if winning them all in a row. Secondly, it is really extremely difficult to lose the same amount of points on a losing run due to the way we play the system. Also, this system includes bank and money management, so we never get into larger bets to recover any losses like the Martingale approach.

Starting Bank

This system can be used with a starting bank as low as £100, which you would breakdown into points, so £100 = 100 points, as this provides you with a nice profit buffer, although you can of course use a bigger bank up to £500 if you wanted too, but it really is not needed unless you want a bigger buffer.

How Does The System Work

Firstly, you break your bank into points equivalent to £1 per point, so if using a £100 bank then this means it is 100 points.

You then start a session by staking 3 points per hand (£3) playing Black Jack using the Basic Strategy provided until you have reached 15 points (£15) profit then on your very next bet place 50% 7.5 points (£7.50) and this session is now ended, which has either provided you with 22.5 points profit (£22.50) or 7.5 points profit (£7.50) and exit the game.

If at any point you lose 15 points (£15) of your starting bank position you must stop immediately and exit that session.

Then you follow the Basic Black Jack Strategy apart from the stated changes that you will find under and at the top of the chart.

Important Additions To The Basic Strategy

- Never take insurance if the dealer has an ACE
- Only ever split 2 ACE'S no other pairs
- Never double down on anything not even 11
